Shared Services Plan

The attached submission is intended to demonstrate Center Line's compliance with the shared services portion of the State of Michigan economic vitality incentive program and detail the city's efforts and accomplishments at improving services and reducing costs through the sharing and consolidation of services.

The City of Center Line has a long history of consolidating and/or contracting out for services for the improvement and/or economizing of such services. The fully integrated Center Department of Public Safety is an example of the city's leadership role in the consolidation of services. Center Line's Department of Public Safety was one of the first fully integrated departments of public safety to fully integrate and has been fully integrated for over thirty years.

The implementation of the 2013 shared service initiative plan to cross-train DPW workers as fire fighters is a logical extension of the public safety concept. The cross-training of DPW workers was conceived as a means to augment the Public Safety Department's ability to respond to fires and other emergencies during normal work hours when many paid-on-call firefighters are not available. Under the plan, DPW workers are trained as firefighters and carry their turnout gear in their DPW vehicles. If a fire or other emergency occurs, the DPW workers immediately respond to the scene or to the fire station as directed by dispatch. One DPW worker has been cross trained is already responding to fires and other emergencies. Additional DPW workers will be trained as staffing permits.

Two other successful shared services initiatives for 2013 also included fire services. Center Line successfully implemented its plans to participate in the Michigan Emergency Management Assistance Compact (MEEMAC) and the Michigan Mutual Aid Box Alarm System (MABAS). Center Line is now a full participant in both programs. However, not all shared services initiatives planned for 2013 were successful.

Two initiatives for 2013 that were not successful both involved the city's efforts to reduce its solid waste disposal costs. An effort to combine solid waste pickup bidding for Eastpointe, Roseville, and Center Line failed because the unique geographies of the communities were not suitable to a single bid. For instance, Center Line was able to obtain a better price on its own due to its close proximity to the Detroit incinerator. Efforts to contract with the City of Warren for solid waste pickup failed when Warren withdrew from negotiations.

Another initiative involving the City of Warren that did not work out was the proposed multimedia communications collaboration. One of the problems that a city the size of Center Line has is that it is too small to provide residents with access to its public access channel. Partnering with Warren on these efforts had the potential to solve this problem. Unfortunately, Warren was unable to proceed with this effort.

As an alternative to partnering with Warren, the City of Center Line proposes to partner with Community Media Network TV (CMNTV) to provide its residents with public access programming. CMNTV already provides similar services to several Oakland County communities. Although this partnership will not provide any current savings to Center Line, it will provide the city with the ability to provide a service to its residents that it is currently not able to provide.

A proposed initiative for 2014 that is intended to improve service to the community and save money is the consolidation of the library and recreation departments into one department. The consolidation will not only save money by allowing for the coordination of staffing between the two departments, but it will improve service to the community through the synergistic relationship that will be formed between the library and recreation services.

Another proposed initiative for 2014 is the contracting out of after-hours water main break repairs. The City of Center Line currently uses DPW employees to respond to after-hours water main breaks. This is not only expensive due to contractually obligated overtime costs, but it is also sometimes difficult to locate adequate DPW workers to respond to after-hours repairs. After-hours repairs also place additional strain on department equipment that may necessitate their more frequent repairs and/or replacements.

The city proposes to contract out after-hours water main repairs to a company that specializes in such repairs. Not only is a company that specializes in such repairs likely to do a better job than employees who repair water mains as an occasional part of their job, but the contracting out of this service could also reduce costs by reducing the amount of time it takes to repair leaking mains and by repairing the mains at a lower overall cost.

A unique initiative proposed for 2014 is the partnering of the City of Center Line and its residents to increase the number of trees planted along the city's residential streets. Under the program, the city will provide the trees and their professional planting at no charge to the residents. The city would also provide tree maintenance classes that residents would be required to successfully complete prior to receiving their tree. In turn, the residents would agree to properly maintain the trees in their yards. This would, increase the number of trees within the community, increase residential property values, and help foster a sense of community within the City of Center Line. The resident would get a free professionally planted tree, and the city would save money by not having to maintain the trees.

The final proposed initiative for 2014 is the contracting out of brush chipping services. The city currently provides brush chipping services to residents on a weekly basis. Beginning in 2014, Center Line intends to contract these services out to Rizzo Services at an estimated cost savings of over $30,000 per year compared to having DPW employees provide service. The initiative will not only potentially reduce costs by reducing the number of DPW department hours worked and reducing the need for brush chipping equipment, but it will also streamline services to the residents by making one entity, Rizzo Services, responsible for all solid waste placed at the curb.

A final point to consider in evaluating Center Line's efforts to share and consolidate services are the barriers to consolidation that the city faces. The primary barrier is that Center Line's costs for providing municipal services are so low that is difficult to find another entity that can provide the services as economically. Serious consideration was recently given to the contracting out or consolidation of emergency dispatch, assessing, and public works. In every instance, the services provided by the City of Center Line were cheaper and better than anything else available. Despite the cost saving potential, it is difficult for Center Line to provide services to nearby communities because the city is so much smaller than its surrounding communities. Despite these barriers, Center Line continues to actively search for ways to reduce its costs and/or improve its services through consolidation.

The City of Center Line has detailed these and other shared services efforts in its EVIP II compliance packet, which is available through Munetrix via a link at the City of Center Line's website at WWW.CENTERLINE.GOV and on paper at its City Hall at 7070 East Ten Mile Road, Center Line, MI and its Library at 7345 Weingartz, Center Line MI.

Shared Service - Multi-Media Communications Collaboration

Owner:	Warren
Form:	Joint Venture
Primary Purpose:	Collaboration

Year Initiated:	2012
Revenues:	$0 (less partner contributions)
Website:

Description:

The City of Warren Communications Department has always fostered a vision to reach out to all Macomb County communities to enrich television (pre-production, production and post-production) planning and production.

The primary benefit of this proposal is to enrich all the communities choosing to partner with this service during difficult economic times where individual community PEG services may be diminished. By combining efforts, the City of Warren Communications Department's advanced technological infrastructure can remain intact to continue to serve its own community, while using economies of scale to benefit communities with fewer resources.

These combined resources will further support the replacement and maintenance of equipment and facilities in keeping with TV Warren's history of excellent programming to its residents. This goal can be maintained by the potential client community contributing to multi-media services (television facilities, mobile production truck rental, etc.) with their franchise fee dollars, without having to bear the cost of maintaining these assets themselves.

BARRIERS TO COLLABORATION:

- Funding and legal considerations for operating within a Special Revenue Fund.
- Establishment and consideration of Franchise Fees,
- Technology upgrades.

As the other partners were unable to proceed with this project, Center Line is seeking other potential partners for to continue this effort with.

Warren and private companies bid to provide Center Line with solid waste collection and disposal. Center Line awarded the contract to a private company that provided a lower bid than Warren.

It was also determined that the different requirements of each city would cause a barrier for vendors due different truck types needed to service each city's demands.

Description:

Residents of the City of Center Line currently do not have access to a public access cable channel through either of the two cable television providers operating within the City of Center Line. The city does not have resources to institute its own public access channel.

Community Media Network TV (CMTV) is a consortium of Oakland County communities that have joined together to offer public access cable television to their communities at a reduced cost. Current CMTV funding members include Auburn Hills, Berkley, Oakland Township, Royal Oak, Rochester, and Troy. In addition, CMTV programming is available through cable providers in Clawson, Ferndale, Huntington Woods, Pleasant Ridge, and Rochester Hills.

The City of Center Line proposes to partner with CMNTV to provide its residents with local access programming at a cost that will be much lower than if the city were to provide the service itself. The partnership will not only provide residents with public access channels on both WOW and Comcast, but it will give residents the opportunity to utilize the recording and broadcasting facilities of CMTV to create their own programs.

Possible obstacles to the proposed partnership are failure of the CMTV board or city council to approve membership. Another potential problem is underutilization of the services by residents.

Description:

The City of Center Line proposes to merge its library and recreation departments to reduce costs and improve the level of service to the community. The process will begin with the appointment of one department head to oversee both departments and evolve to include the sharing of programs and employees between departments and possibly relocating the two departments into one building. While the estimated yearly savings from this merger is only $25,000 per year, it is anticipated that both recreation and library functions will be synergistically improved.

There is no timeline for relocating the departments into one building as that level of integration is optional and is dependent on the availability of capital improvement funding.

Possible roadblocks to this program include inability to find a department head able to effectively manage both departments and reluctance on the part of employees and advisory board members to accept merging the departments.

Description:

Over the years, the number of trees along the roadways within the City of Center Line has diminished as diseases and pests have taken their toll. While the city can afford to replace many of trees, it cannot afford to take on the burden of maintaining the additional trees. Furthermore, the narrow strip of grass between the sidewalk and street is a poor area for tree planting.

As an alternative, the City of Center Line proposes to partner with its residents in the following manner. The residents will volunteer to host and maintain a tree in their front yard. They will also agree to attend a class on how to properly maintain their new tree. The city will provide the tree and its proper planting and will sponsor the tree maintenance class.

This program will increase the number of trees planted along the roadways within the City of Center Line without increasing the city's tree maintenance costs. Furthermore, the program will increase property values within the City of Center Line to the benefit of the city and its residents. In addition, the program will help foster a sense of community within the city.

Shared Service - Center Line/Warren Special Response Team (SRT)

Owner:	Warren
Form:	Joint Venture
Primary Purpose:	Public Safety
Scope:	External
Status:	Existing
Year Initiated:	2013
Revenues:	$0 (less partner contributions)
Website:

Description:

Police Special Response Teams (SRT) are highly trained and specialized police personnel deployed to emergencies and other special operations. In certain situations, the public safety would be better served through the joint deployment of each department's team, while eliminating an unnecessary duplication services and cost.

The proposed agreement provides for the mutual participation of both the City of Center Line and Warren Police Departments, as needed, in special response team operations. The agreement does not create a binding obligation upon either police department to provide its team to the other department. The document is intended to authorize the police departments to work cooperatively, as appropriate and sets the terms applicable to the mutual utilization of the special response team services.

Both communities are proposing that two Center Line Officers join the Warren Police Department's existing SWAT team for two primary reasons: 1.) They will increase the team staffing without the Warren Police having to exhaust budgeted funds. 2.) if/when the City of Center Line has need for a SWAT Team response due to a critical incident, Warren would be the likely responding agency, and therefore it makes sense for both communities to contribute officers to this joint function.

Center Line will fully supply their officers with weapons, uniforms etc.

This agreement represents the first public safety related cooperative agreement between the City of Center Line and the City of Warren, and is limited to peripheral services, not affecting primary public safety operations for either community.

BARRIERS TO IMPLEMENTATION:

In lieu of this consolidation of services proposal, the residents of the City of Center Line passed a Public Safety Millage to continue to pay for their own Police and Fire protection under a combined Public Safety Department.

However, the City of Warren still proposes there is a significant cost savings to consider at some point in the future if the moons align.

This program was put into place in 2013 with two Center Line Public Safety officers being assigned to the Warren Special Response Team.

2014 STATUS UPDATE:

Description:

The City of Center Line's utilizes cross-trained public safety officers and paid-on-call firefighters to provide firefighting services to its residents and businesses. One problem with this system is that fewer paid-on-call firefighters are available to respond to emergencies during normal business hours because they are unable to leave their full-time jobs. To address this problem, the City of Center Line proposes cross-training Center Line DPW employees as firefighters. These employees will carry their turnout gear in their DPW vehicles and respond immediately to emergencies during normal work hours. This will provide the Center Line Public Safety Department with additional firefighters when they are needed the most. This program was implemented in 2013 when the first DPW employee completed the fire academy and began responding to fires as part of his normal work assignment. Additional DPW employees will be cross trained as resources permit. The only barrier encountered in cross training DPW workers to perform firefighting duties is scheduling the training as it requires several weeks of full-time classes and the DPW staffing is lower than it has ever been, meaning that DPW workers cannot be trained during the winter and summer months when DPW is its busiest.

Description:

The City of Center Line proposes to work with the Center Line Public School District to improve its recreation resources by revising its partnership for the operation of the Center Line football Field. Under the proposed plan, the city would maintain ownership of the facility while the district would take control of the facility's operation and accept full responsibility for the field's maintenance. This agreement will allow the district to maintain the field in the manner it wishes and allow the city to redirect resources previously used to maintain the field to other uses.

A possible barrier to this proposal is the inability of the district to maintain the field due to voters possibly rejecting the district's 2013 millage renewal.

This plan was put into place in September, 2013 when CLPSD took over responsibility for maintaining the football field at Memorial Park. This has resulted in substantial maintenance cost savings for the City of Center Line.

Description:

Starting with a neighborhood clean up in 2003 and then receiving funding from LISC in 2004, the V-8 corridor area strives to promote community. The V-8 corridor stretches from McNichols to Ten Mile, and Hoover to Mound, touching Detroit, Warren and Center Line. Each of these communities, along with local stakeholders has been involved in this project. This continues to be an ongoing effort to revitalize the commercial corridor and attract new services and businesses.

Unlike many gateway projects, the V-8 plans to not only physically revitalize and develop business, but they also want to enhance the quality of life and develop cross boundary youth programs. They plan to use their strong housing stock and high levels of daily traffic to drive the development. They want quality grocery stores, restaurants, and retail services that will be visited by both vehicular and pedestrian traffic. V-8 has offered help through matching programs for facade improvement, "Business and Breakfast" meetings, hosting classes that help local business owners, and engaging youth. LISC works to transform distressed neighborhoods into healthy ones through partnerships, cross-sector collaborations, new investment opportunities, and new ways to leverage resources for Detroit neighborhoods.
